These General Terms and Conditions shall be without prejudice to the provisions of the Fee and Services Proposal which, in the event of any inconsistency, shall prevail over the provisions hereof.
2. The scope of the services to be provided shall be agreed with the Client and may be modified, always by prior agreement, during the course of the assignment. The advice provided by Lupicinio International Law Firm shall have the scope expressly agreed by the parties and, under no circumstances, shall it cover financial, accounting, economic, valuation or other matters, unless expressly provided for in the proposal of services and fees.

SECOND. – ASSUMPTIONS

1. Lupicinio International Law Firm, unless expressly agreed otherwise, advises exclusively on Spanish law. Under no circumstances do the opinions and, in general, the advice provided include the law applicable to any other jurisdiction. Any reference to foreign jurisdictions cannot be considered a legal opinion provided by the Firm.
2. All professional assignments relating to lawyers of Lupicinio International Law Firm are understood to be made exclusively to the Firm, even when there is an express or tacit intention that the assignment be carried out by a particular professional. The Firm shall be responsible for appointing and assigning its professionals, in the manner most appropriate at its discretion, for the performance of the services in the interest of the Client, without prejudice to which it shall endeavour to respond to the Client’s requirements or suggestions in respect of particular profiles or criteria for intervening persons.
3. The advice provided by Lupicinio International Law Firm is exclusively for the benefit of the Client and may not be used or communicated to any other person or entity, or by other companies or persons of the same group or used for any other purpose without prior written permission of the Firm. Lupicinio International Law Firm accepts no professional liability whatsoever to persons other than the Client who may have had access to the reports, documents or advice provided in the performance of the advisory services.
4. The Firm may request the Client, at any time, to provide it with the information it considers necessary to be able to carry out the assignment with the appropriate quality. All the documentation and information necessary for the performance of the services shall be provided with sufficient advance time by the Client or its advisors, notwithstanding the fact that the Firm is empowered-if deemed appropriate-to obtain contrasting public information that may be obtained from public or private sources and/or organizations. As a general rule, the Client shall not provide the Firm with original documents unless it is essential and unless expressly requested to do so.

The Firm shall not be liable for the consequences of any lack of information, error, inadequacy, omission, or irregularity, including untruthfulness or falsity of materials and/or documents, made or provided by or on behalf of Clients. The scope of the services to be provided by the Firm shall not include checking the veracity of the information received and shall not constitute the purpose of the same carrying out an audit of such information.

5. The Firm's liability is limited to the performance of the services contemplated in the service and fee proposal with the highest degree of professionalism and always in accordance with current legislation. The maximum liability of the Firm, its partners, staff and employees, and its associated professionals for damages, losses or claims that may arise from the services contemplated in the service and fee proposals shall be limited, unless otherwise agreed between the parties, to twice the amount of the fees actually received by the Firm in accordance with the proposal and any liability shall expire two (2) years after the termination of the services contemplated in the corresponding offer of advice.

The Client is aware that the services offered by the Firm are limited to legal advice. When the Client exceptionally requests the Firm to represent the Client in any act, business, or contract, including the conduct of negotiations, this shall be deemed to imply necessarily the waiver by the Client of any claim against Lupicinio International Law Firm, its partners, or its associated professionals or employees in respect of the actions performed in such representation. In addition, the Client agrees to indemnify the Firm and keep the Firm fully indemnified against any claims, costs and expenses arising or incurred in connection with such representation.

It is expressly agreed that the Firm's only liability to the Client shall be for gross and undisputed professional negligence and, under no circumstances, may indirect damages or losses, loss of profit, consequential damages or opportunity costs, be the object of any claim against the Firm, its partners, associated professionals, employees and/or its staff.

6. The Firm cannot guarantee the Clients or any third parties the professional success of the actions or advice it provides on behalf of or for the benefit of the Client and, in particular, in those matters relating to litigation, as the outcome is not the exclusive competence of the professionals providing the services, as other third parties may intervene and determine the final outcome of the same. The provision of services by Lupicinio International Law Firm shall be considered an obligation of means and not of result.
7. The advice provided by the Firm to the Client refers to the time of its provision. The Firm undertakes no obligation to review, update or amend the advice or information and/or documents provided in relation to any changes in Spanish Law or for any other reason after the provision of the advice.
8. Unless otherwise specifically agreed between the parties in the proposal of services and fees, the working language and the language in which all documentation shall be presented to the Client shall be English.
9. Proposals for services and fees submitted by the Firm shall be valid for a general period of fifteen (15) calendar days from the date thereof, unless otherwise specifically agreed between the parties.

THIRD. – INDEPENDENCE IN THE PROVISION OF SERVICES

Lupicinio International Law Firm will provide its services with absolute independence, without being obliged to follow any guidelines or directives from the Client that may affect its professional criteria.

FOURTH. – CONFLICT DE INTERESTS

Lupicinio International Law Firm undertakes to not advise different Clients at the same time and on the same matter when there could be a direct conflict between the interests of said Clients. Likewise, it undertakes to not advise a Client on a given matter when it has prior information on that matter obtained from another Client, provided that, in the Firm's opinion, this would prevent it from providing the required advice in conditions of independence.

As part of the process of accepting any assignment, the Firm has established internal analysis procedures in order to assess potential conflicts of interest and the ongoing assessment of risks associated with the provision of services. For this reason, prior to the possible acceptance of the assignments that may arise from this proposal, the Firm must carry out these procedures in order to determine whether there are circumstances that could give rise to a potential conflict of interest. In addition, the Client specifically understands and accepts that, as a result of the ongoing assessment of risks associated with the provision of services, the Firm may terminate the provision of services to the Client at any time during the provision of the services, by giving the Client a seven (7) days' notice, and the Client waives any claim against the Firm in the event of such termination.

In addition, the Client is informed that, if while carrying out the services provided to the Client, any third parties not initially foreseen are identified, the Firm must also carry out procedures to identify potential conflicts with respect to them and, if any are identified, the Firm will contact the Client to assess how they could affect the continuity of the advice, the safeguards to be established, which normally will include the assignment of completely independent work teams, the reinforcement of confidentiality measures, or which could even imply the termination of the advice in the event the potential conflict cannot be resolved.

FIFTH. – TEAM

For the leadership and management of the matters, the Firm shall appoint a coordinator for the relationship and communication of this work with the Client. Likewise, the coordinator will be supported by the professional team selected by the Firm for the services contemplated in the proposal submitted to the Client.

The Lupicinio International Law Firm team appointed for each particular matter or work shall be characterised at all times by its excellence, solid training and extensive experience. The team presented by the Firm aims to provide an integrated response to the specific needs of the Client that may arise within the scope of the services foreseen in the proposal.

Assistance in other matters will be provided by specialised professionals from the corresponding departments, always in coordination with the lawyers on the team involved in the transaction.

In the event that from the analysis of the documentation or in the course of the advice it becomes convenient or necessary, in the interests of the Client, to incorporate other professionals from the Firm, whether collaborators or external, the Firm will assign the relevant professionals to this work.

In the event that the advice or services of another law firm be convenient or necessary, because the matter requires the application of foreign or European Union legislation, the Client, upon presentation of the corresponding estimate or proposal, shall assume the cost of these services as agreed and, in addition, subject to these General Terms and Conditions. Under no circumstances shall the Firm be liable for any damages, losses or negligence that may arise from the services provided by another law firm contracted in accordance with the Client's instructions.

SIXTH. – BILLING

1. Billing:

The Firm will not accept that the Client indicates that the fees and/or invoices are to be issued and/or paid by another entity or person other than the Client to whom the Firm's service proposal is addressed. In case of acceptance of such proposal, the legal representatives of said entity to which it is addressed or the persons indicated in the same shall return it signed to the Firm, as a sign of acceptance and conformity with its content, a duplicate of the proposal of services and fees. The Client undertakes to pay the fees, expenses and outlays included in each invoice under the terms and conditions indicated in the invoice itself, and in its absence, within thirty days from the date of the invoice.

Only the entity or person to whom Lupicinio International Law Firm invoices its fees, is a party to the contractual and legal advisory relationship entered into between the Firm and the Client in connection with the work described in the fee and service proposal. The Firm's liability in connection with such work is solely to the Client, and not to any third party, even if they may claim that they are also a beneficiary of the services rendered by the Firm.

2. Fees

The fees payable to the Firm shall be as set out in the Fee and Services Proposal and the present General Terms and Conditions. Unless the service proposal states otherwise, the time spent by each of the professionals involved will be taken as a reference, applying the hourly cost of each professional. In addition, the Firm may take into account other factors such as the importance, complexity or urgency of the matter, night work or the use of public holidays.

The hourly cost of each professional of the Firm shall be calculated taking into account the experience or specialisation of the professional and shall be subject to periodic review. The Client shall have at his disposal, at any time, information on the hourly cost of all the lawyers and/or professionals involved in his case.

Unless the proposal of services and fees indicates otherwise, the fees for procedural actions shall be calculated in accordance with the indicative criteria approved by the corresponding Bar Association. When the Client has entrusted the Firm with the legal management of a legal or arbitration proceeding and the Client is the beneficiary of the legal costs to be collected in the legal or arbitration proceeding, and the Firm's professional fees have not been agreed or received or, where applicable, the required provisions of funds have not been made, either due to being on an equalisation basis or for any other reason, Lupicinio International Law Firm may appropriate the aforementioned legal or arbitration costs up to the amount of the fees due or derived from the provision of the services.

The Firm may, unless expressly agreed otherwise, request a provision of funds before commencing the provision of advisory services. This provision of funds shall cover the fees and the costs and expenses of the assignment.

Unless otherwise agreed, the fees, expenses and allowances accrued shall be invoiced on a monthly basis and shall be paid to the Firm within a period not exceeding thirty (30) days.

3. VAT, expenses, and supplies

In any case, the fees detailed in the proposal for services and fees, and unless expressly stated otherwise, shall not include: (i) expenses and supplies incurred within the framework of the services provided by the Firm (such as, for example, obtaining certifications or reports from public registries, travel and accommodation expenses, translations, mass photocopying, courier services, etc.); nor (ii) the taxes (VAT) applicable thereto; nor (iii) the fees of other professionals (solicitors, notaries, registrars, arbitrators, mediators, experts, technicians, advisors, consultants, agencies, translators, agents ("gestorias"), etc.).

The Client undertakes to reimburse the Firm for all costs and expenses incurred in the execution of the assignment, which, once incurred, shall be duly justified upon request.

4. Suspension or termination of services

The Firm may suspend the work entrusted to it or cease definitively the provision of services if the Client does not cooperate or provides the documentation or information necessary for the execution of the assignment or does not pay any of the bills or invoices of the Firm corresponding to fees, expenses and/or supplies within the established period. The suspension or termination of services may extend to any and all of the matters that the Client, or any of its direct or indirect shareholders, as well as any subsidiaries, affiliates or associated companies or the administrators of any of the aforementioned have entrusted to the Firm. Lupicinio International Law Firm shall not be liable for any damages that this suspension or termination may cause. Failure to pay provision of funds, payment request document or invoices issued by the Firm within the established deadline will give rise, where there is no rule to the contrary, to the accrual of interest in accordance with the provisions of Law 3/2004, of 29 December, which establishes measures to combat late payment in commercial transactions.

SEVENTH. – CONFIDENTIALITY

The Firm shall maintain, at all times in relation to the services provided, as well as in relation to any data and information of which it may become aware in connection therewith, absolute confidentiality regarding any information provided.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Firm may, at the express written request of the Client, provide the information required for the preparation of audits, and the Client accepts that this does not imply any breach of the duty of confidentiality assumed by the Firm. The Firm will invoice for the time invested in collaborating with the Client's audit.

Unless otherwise indicated by the Client, Lupicinio International Law Firm is authorised to disclose its participation in a matter for commercial, reputational, doctrinal or academic purposes, although this may not include confidential or reserved information. The Firm may include in its communications such information as it deems appropriate in relation to the advice provided.

When necessary or appropriate due to the nature of the services or the Client, the Firm will duly comply with the regulations on the use and protection of privileged information, in relation to all information of this nature to which it may have access as a result of the provision of its professional services.
